

A communication was received from the National Humane Alliance of New York stating that it would present a drinking fountain of polished marble, valued at about $500, provided the city would set it up. Mayor Bunker stated that the Kennebec water district had voted to furnish water free if the city moved to accept the fountain.

BOYS' SUMMER CAMPS PLANNED

Four May Be Established in the State.

Waterville Men Are at Bottom of Scheme.

Will Be Backed by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Plans are being made at the Young Men's Christian association in this city for summer camps for boys. At the head of the movement is C. C. Booth, secretary of boys and students work in the state, and Jefferson H. Smith, state secretary. If the plans are carried out, there will be three of these camps and maybe four. These will be camps where boys from all parts can spend all or part of the summer vacation upon the payment of a small amount of money and where they will receive the best of care and attention.

The idea of camps is to place them about the state so as to have one accessible to every part. Large districts will be accommodated, and any boys will be welcomed. One of these camps will be in Ansonia county, another in Piscataquis county, one near Portland and if the fourth is possible will be located in Kennebec county. There are plenty of fine spots where the camps may be located, beside some of Maine's best trout lakes, and where the boys will occupy the time in healthful and mild recreating recreation.

In the past summer, private individuals have started these camps, but they have been few. The Young Men's Christian association is planning to have the boys down to best rest and supervision. Other persons may be engaged to do the greater work, but this does not mean that the boys will be allowed to remain idle for each will have certain tasks to keep him busy for part of the day. Whatever charges are made will be simply to cover expenses and no attempt will be made to make the thing pay.

The general idea of the camps is to build up the boys' work of the summer through the medium of the camps. It is certain that the camps will pay for themselves. In no case will they be a burden. The cost of each camp has been estimated. There have been Young Men's Christian association camps in the state before now, but they were under the supervision of local branches, and up to a short time ago, they were for association members only, but have changed so as to admit any who desired to attend.

Municipal Court Doing. One man was taken to the municipal court yesterday morning and was ordered to pay the costs for being drunk and creating a disturbance at his home. He was held in bonds for his appearance from day to day, in order to insure his future good behavior.

Lewis L. Newton yesterday paid the law imposed upon him for the delivery of an arsenal for which he was tried yesterday morning. His father helped him out of his difficulty.

WINDFALL FOR CITY.

National Alliance Foundate Will Be Sold One.

From the photographs and descriptive notes at the city government meeting, the foundate to be presented to the city by the National Humane Alliance of New York will be a great addition to the city hall square, where it will probably be placed. The title of the one shown in the photograph and which will probably be sold here is very attractive. It consists of polished stone, a circular mosaic floor from an old ship, bearing a large circular bowl. There is a pretty designed top piece above the bowl bearing a bronze plate with the inscription that the foundate has been presented to the city by the Alliance.

The foundate are designed for high water for dogs, horses and people, there being a basin with a top around for dogs, the circular bowl be-

THE KLEPTOMANIAC.

Young Ladies Will Present Farce This Evening.

The young ladies of St. Mark's guild will give an entertainment in aid of the fund for the girls building in Maine street this evening, the proceeds of which will be given to the fund for the erection of a marble house. The program will consist of music and the presentation of a farce by seven young ladies. Refreshments will be on the table.

The farce to be given is called "The Kleptomaniac" and the following is the cast:

Mrs. Valerius—Miss Armbrust, a young widow; Mrs. Margaret Perival, Mrs. Christine, Mrs. John, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Edith, Mrs. Anna, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. Robert, Mrs. Mildred, Mrs. Gertrude Perival.

Music will be furnished by Miss Lillian Gray for the violin and Miss Gertrude Webber, pianist.

WEED OF PRAYER.

Next Week Will Be Observed at Both Very Generally.

Next week, Nov. 16 to 17 inclusive, will witness a special prayer by the Young Men's Christian association throughout the country in behalf of young men and the various departments of work among them. The dominating purpose is to have the work characterized by a mighty volume of intercessory prayer, both in private devotions of members and in the prayers of young men in each public gathering as may be held.

The colleges and schools will pay attention to the week, and in places where there are branches of the association daily services will be held. A list of subjects has been published and in an attempt to make the prayer each information as will enable one to pray intelligently. The vast prayer volume for each day covering some part of the organized association movement, some part of the organization of penitence and improvement and some section of the world will contain Nov. 11, will be the special day of thanksgiving and special evangelizing to whom. Further plans for the work of the week in this city and in the country will be announced later.

Stranger what a little thing will upset a man and keep him so all day, when he ought to be alert and cheerful. A heavy, but light cut for breakfast has been known to create a scrap between lifelong friends.

If you want a peaceful day eat a dish of Grape-Nuts (show it slowly) and cream.

The delicate chewing of the crisp, nutty granules, which have a delicious flavor with cream, will not only put you right but give you strength of mind and body for the morning's work at the office. Try it. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Well-Ville," in pkgs.

HOW FOUNTAIN WAS GIVEN CITY

Society Established by H. L. Ensign.

Left Fortune to Carry on the Work.

Friend of Animals and Wanted Them to Have Fountains.

The Humane Alliance, which has just presented a drinking fountain to the city to be set up on City hall square at once, was founded by the late Hermon Lee Ensign, who left his fortune for the benefit of animals. Before his death a society was organized to carry on the work and has been handling the money left in its care.

As a rule, the fountains are given only to the larger cities and Portland is the only one in Maine to have received one before Waterville. Some time ago Mayor Bunker heard of the society and investigated. He located the headquarters in New York city with the officers. At first they did not think Waterville large enough but, finally, a representative was sent here to investigate and was entertained by the mayor, who showed him the city. He was evidently very favorably impressed with the city but made no definite promises, saying he would write after he had returned to New York. So a letter was received just before the meeting of the city government in November, stating that it had been decided to give Waterville one of the fountains, if the city would accept it, officially, provide a suitable site, furnish connections and water and care for it properly. These terms were agreed to and the fountain was received, Wednesday.

The only cost to the city, according to the agreement, is for hauling the fountain from the freight yard to the square and setting it up. The water district has agreed to furnish the necessary water supply free. The fountain is to be set at once as there is no frost enough in the ground as yet to interfere with the work.

The fountain is of highly polished Maine granite of simple and artistic design and will be a fine addition to the pretty little square.

Hermon Lee Ensign, the man who founded the society, was born in Carbondale, Pa., June 30, 1849. At an early age he moved with his parents to Sheffield, Ill. When 15 years old, he acquired a knowledge of telegraphing and soon became an expert operator.

His health or finances soon failed and he left school and went to Chicago, where he began business with a bridge company.

During the great fire of 1871 he rendered important service to this company by saving from the office valuable books.

A few years later he became the manager of a brilliantly written journal, mildly religious and widely humanitarian. His experience in journalism he turned to practical account by later engaging in the advertising business, following it with marked success, and acquiring a fortune in 20 years.

Fertile in fancy, and quick in experiment, he devised a new form of line reading advertising. He also invented the stereotype plate with removable base.

In 1882 he moved to Rochester and two years later to New York, where he lived until his death in 1899.

His more intimate friends know that he had other interests and feelings, which represented the deeper
